...have the skills required to deal with it

...have influence

...have resources

...will benefit if the issue is addressed

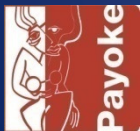

...might bring a diverse viewpoint to the partnership

Positive results seen recently

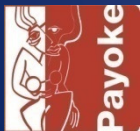

- ✦ Better detection of victims
- ✦ Prompt referrals to specialized victim centres
- ✦ Better investigation techniques and coordination
- ✦ Confiscations awarded to the victims
- ✦ Family reunification

✦ Adapted from “New Approach Towards Human Trafficking in the EU: Raising Awareness and Developing Integrated Action: Belgium’s Experience in Human Trafficking”, presentation by Jozef De Witte , Director, Centre for Equal Opportunities and Opposition to Racism (CEOOR)

Why is it so difficult to identify victims of human trafficking?

- Lack of legal framework
- Nature of the crime
- Inability to recognise victims
- Absence of a coordinated response to identification
- The way victims view their experiences

Our recommendations for improving victim identification

- ❖ Create a strong network, ensuring good cooperation and coordination mechanisms are in place
- ❖ Clarify roles and responsibilities
- ❖ Ensure key stakeholders are knowledgeable about the crime of trafficking and its victims
- ❖ Train front-line services to be aware of indicators and provide them resources to act upon suspicions
- ❖ Talk to suspected victims using appropriate interviewing techniques
- ❖ Listen, listen, listen!!!
